

Mike Atzert

Mike began his aviation career as a free-lance flight instructor in 1979, then went to work full-time as a flight instructor for Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University in Prescott, AZ. Mike's flying experience includes flight time and type certificates in various jet transport aircraft with forty years work experience in both private and airline environments. His leadership history includes duty as an International B767 PIC, Director of Safety, Aviation Safety Consultant, and WYVERN Flight Leader Coach.

Mike received his safety education through both the USC Aviation Safety and Security Certificate Program and the Embry-Riddle graduate aviation safety program. He is a registered Certified International Safety Manager (CISM) with the International Society of Safety Professionals. Additionally, Mike continues to keep his aviating skills current by flying both gliders and his soaring club glider tow-planes.
